Key Race Report explanation:

- DRF defines a key race as a race which produces two or more winners in their next start.
- At the top of the report is an alphabetical list of all horses that are entered for that day exiting a key race. Bold-faced horses are those who are exiting a race with at least 3 next-out winners. In addition, the track and race number for the horse appear next to its name.
- Following the index, the key race horses are listed alphabetically by track where they are entered.
- The gray highlighted row contains the key race horse with self-evident pieces of data. If more than one horse is entered in the same race while exiting the same key race, they will both be highlighted within the same box.
- Immediately under the gray highlighted area in the next two rows are the specifics of the key race that the subject horse is exiting.
- Below that are the result of horses who raced exiting the key race, the columns being self-explanatory. The horses are listed in finish order of the key race.
- Occasionally horses exiting the same key race will be entered in different races on the same card. DRF cross-references those horses in bold along with the race number they are entered in.
